

We gather at the Harcourt flame
Friday, April 24, 2020

Living in the Present – 5

I am responsible for my existence
but only for one day at a time.
By squandering a few days
I will sow doubt as to my judgement.
It will denote superficiality,
lack of discipline and immaturity.
Life has no more value than what I do with it in the present moment.

Louis-Marie Parent, The Present Moment, 1991 Editions Paulines, p. 100